Introduction

More than half a century has passed since THE BEANO first saw the light of day in newsagents across the land and was bought by children who eagerly donned their free first issue Whoopee Masks, little thinking that in due course their grandchildren would still be able to buy future editions of the same comic.

From pre-war times to the hi-tech video age, through the watershed years of Dennis the Menace, Leo Baxendale and Ken Reid in the 1950s, from the days of George Moonie, Dudley Watkins and Big Eggo and on to Euan Kerr, Dave Sutherland and Calamity James, these two volumes are a modest attempt to catalogue the complete history of 'Beanotown' from 1938 to the end of 1989. A history which, I'll hope you'll agree, is of more than passing interest.

DEDICATION

To all those creative individuals, the architects of Beanotown, who have contributed to THE BEANO over the years, and to those who during a word association test when presented with the word 'Lord' would reply 'Snooty' instead of 'Longford', these volumes are respectfully dedicated.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Trying to compile these Diaries alone would have been an impossible task so for various reasons I'd like to thank all of the following for the help they've given, directly or indirectly, to the finished article: Bill Lofts, the late Derek Adley, Alan and Laurel Clark, Colin Morgan, Alan Cadwallender, Jim Allinson, Geoff Newman, J.K. Ledsom, Denis Gifford as always and, last but not least, Alan and David Coates my co-conspirators in the project from day one. Thanks also to all those unnamed people who, by their own personal researches, have contributed to the final work as it now stands.

A NOTE FROM THE PUBLISHERS

British comics and story papers have been published now for more than one hundred years, and THE BEANO is probably the most famous of them all. We suspect it has consistently had one of the highest numbers of readers of any such publication in this country, and is undoubtedly amongst the most well-loved and best-remembered.

Who would have suspected that when No. 1 of THE BEANO first appeared back in 1938, it would establish such a creditable record for itself? Certainly D.C. Thomson's publications were beginning to grasp a significant share of the market by the time BEANO appeared, but no one could have foretold just how successful that new comic would be.

We have to thank the geniuses - the artists and writers - who have created such characters as Lord Snooty, the Bash Street Kids, Dennis the Menace, Jonah, Minnie the Minx, Biffo, Jimmy and his Magic Patch and Kat and Canary - to name but a few of the marvellous creations from THE BEANO. And wartime restrictions aside, what a feat to publish 52 weeks of the year! We also have to thank Ray Moore for completing the truly Herculean task of writing THE BEANO DIARIES. It will stand for years to come as a masterpiece of research into a world which others have found incredibly difficult to penetrate.

Our task as publishers included the responsibility for choosing the illustrations to these volumes - not easy considering the wealth of material to draw from. We've therefore tried to give a representative sample of the many different characters and drawing styles from THE BEANO to give you an all-round appreciation of its contents during each period.

So now read on and enjoy learning about THE BEANO. Even the most devoted Beanophile will find something in these volumes which they never knew before.

Thanks again Ray!

How to use these Books

1. Organisation of the entries appearing in THE BEANO COMIC

Each character/feature that appeared in THE BEANO from 1938 to the end of 1989 appears in THE BEANO DIARIES. For ease of reference, the entries are listed in year order (e.g. 1938, 1939, 1940, etc) with each year's list of characters/ features given in the order of its first appearance.

2. Abbreviations used in THE BEANO DIARIES

A number of different abbreviations are used in THE BEANO DIARIES in order to avoid the repetition of the same word, e.g. 'Magic-Beano Book' appears as MBB. The following is a list of the abbreviations that appear throughout THE BEANO DIARIES:

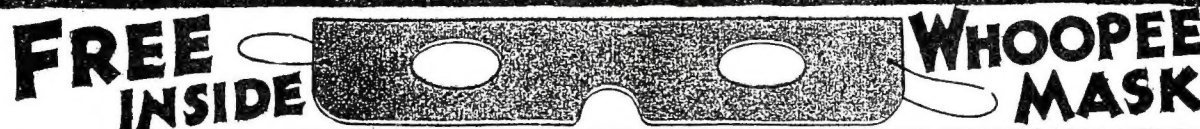

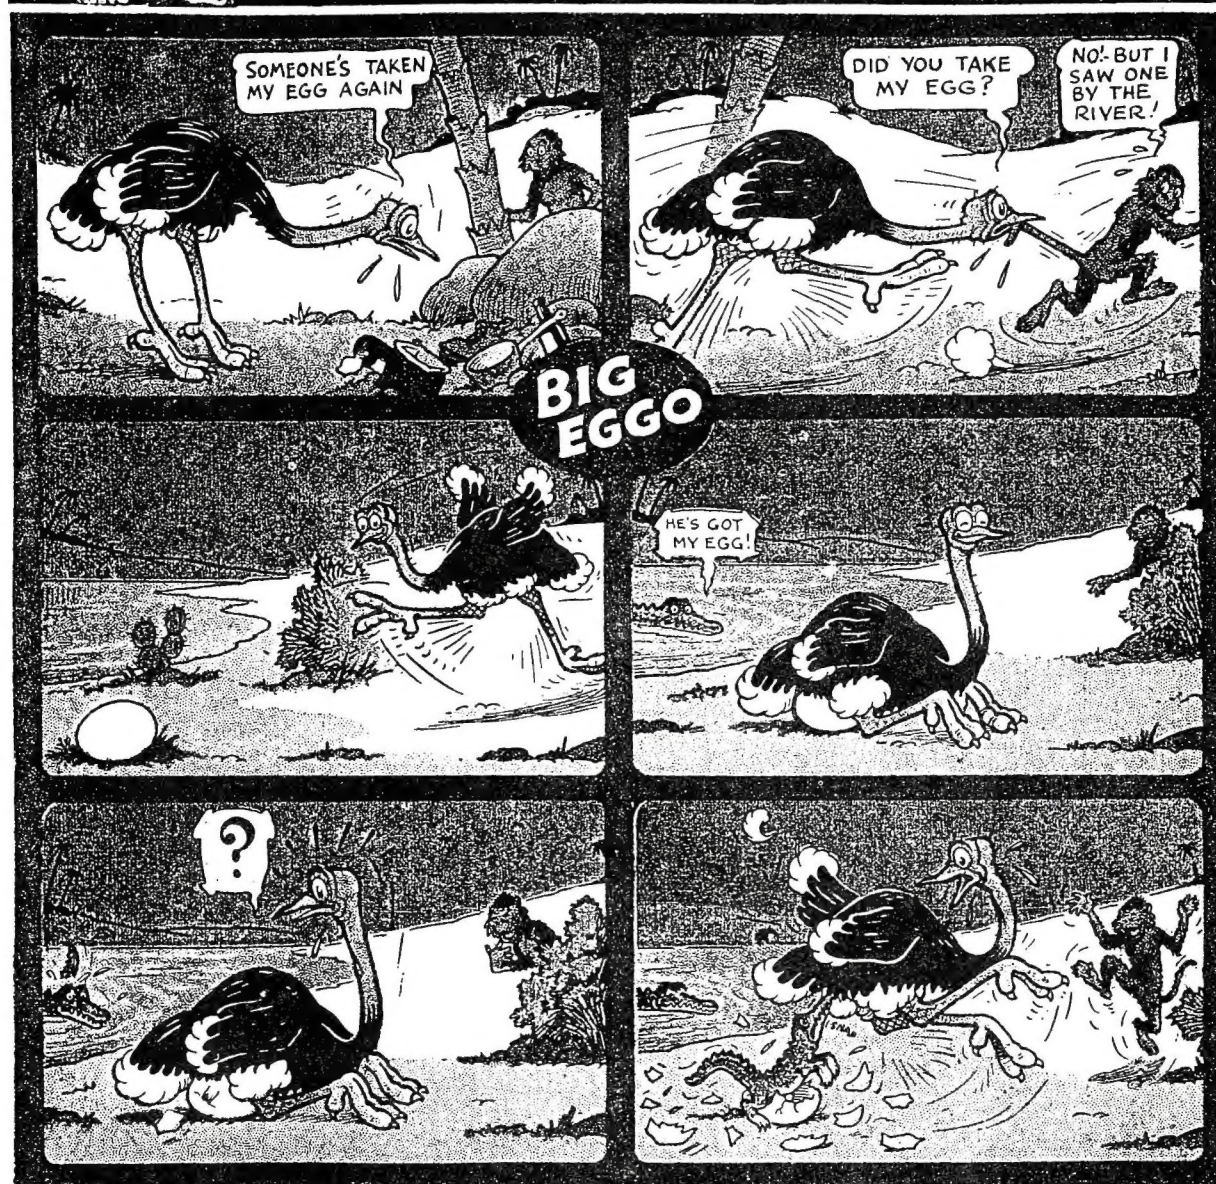

ANN	Annual (either Beano Book or Magic-Beano Book)
BB	Beano Book (1940-1942, 1951 to present)

HC	Hoot Comic (1985-1986)
SP	Sunday Post Fun Section (Beano reprints, 1976-1977)

3. 'Ghost' artists

As it would be impossible to list them all, no attempt has been made to list artists who 'ghosted' or stood in on strips when the strip's regular artists was absent.

4. Possible errors and omissions

While every attempt has been made to make the information in THE BEANO DIARIES as complete and accurate as possible, errors and omissions are virtually certain to occur to a small degree. Therefore, whilst reading through THE DIARIES, should you spot an error or feel you can supply a piece of omitted information, please write to Ray Moore at the following address (enclosing an SAE if you need a reply): 15 Bradley Road, Prudhoe, Northumberland, NE42 5EG.

Notes: For further series see 1946, 1951, 1955, 1957 and 1958, the last being a reprint.

This first BEANO 'Shipwrecked Circus' series also appeared as a prose story in the boys paper

ADVENTURE from No. 1115 (9.9.44) - No. 1128 (10.3.45). The title 'The Shipwrecked Circus' was first used for another ADVENTURE prose story featuring totally different characters which began in ADVENTURE No. 372 (15.12.28).

After its final BEANO appearance in 1958 the basic storyline was used again in the boys comic BUDDY in a strip titled 'Circus Island' [BUDDY No. 18 (13.6.81) - No. 26 (8.8.81)], the only real difference being that the 'Circus' ends up on the island thanks to a plane crash instead of a shipwreck. This BUDDY strip was drawn by Uzal.

February

First appearance of popular BEANO adventure strip character 'Jack Flash - the Flying Boy' featuring the last new BEANO adventure strip art from Dudley Watkins.

March

After five months of alternating ten and twelve page issues, the page count stabilises at twelve.

'The Taylors' Goose' appears, featuring the last BEANO artwork from Thomson staff artist Jack Prout.

April

'Sam Spitfire' appears, featuring the last BEANO artwork from Thomson staff artist Jack Gordon.

'Big Eggo' artist Reg Carter dies on April 24th, aged 62.

July

Weekly publication of THE BEANO recommences, each issue being available every Friday instead of Tuesdays as had previously been the case.

With issue No. 367 (30.7.49), exactly eleven years after its debut, the first BEANO 'era' draws to a close when the first 'Lord Snooty' series ends, leaving no original first issue item within the comic. (After a similar number of issues THE DANDY still contained five of its original features: Korky the Cat, Desperate Dan, Keyhole Kate, Hungry Horace and Freddy the Fearless Fly).

First appearance of 'Deep-Sea Danny's Iron Fish', whose adventures would eventually run to fifteen series, a record for THE BEANO.

August

Full colour comes to THE BEANO's back page to celebrate the commencement of Pansy Potter's second series in which she becomes a temporary resident of Wonderland.

September

Last combined MAGIC-BEANO BOOK published.

After being available every Friday for two months, THE BEANO changes its publication day to Thursday, which it has remained to the present day.

The third series of 'Little Dead Eye Dick' begins, featuring the last BEANO artwork from artist Charles Holt.

November

First appearance of popular 1950s BEANO adventure strip character 'Tick-Tock-Tony - the Clockwork Horse' in 'The Horse that Jack Built'.

YEAR INFORMATION

Issues for year: Nos. 352-389; price 2d; page count 10 for Nos. 352, 354, 356 and 12 pages for Nos. 353, 355, 357-389. Published fortnightly to No. 366 (23.7.49), then published every Friday to No. 375 (24.9.49), after which THE BEANO was published every Thursday.
